Want to Speak with Pastor?

See phone/text/email contact information above and let her know that you want to speak with her.

Pastor's desk...

It's finally Advent! Last month it felt too early to talk about, and now it feels... a little too late to get into it. :-/ I'm just going to make the excuse that moving* threw me off. So, instead, I'll answer a question I got about our sermon series and corresponding Bible study on the Advent Mothers. (Hopefully I'll be a bit more concise in my writing than I was aloud and in person.) Without remembering the exact wording of the question, it was something to the effect of, "What do all these women have to do with Advent?" Or "How do they tie into Advent?" The stories of Tamar, Rahab, Ruth, and Bathsheba stand on their own in Jewish tradition. They each speak to who God is in their time and place. Jesus, or Jesus the Messiah, are not anticipated in their first telling. We, as Christians who have culturally appropriated these Jewish stories into our own religious faith, read Jesus into these women's stories. Tamar's righteous actions stand on their own in time and place. I think Matthew's writer included these women in his genealogy of Jesus because they were well known stories to his (presumably) predominantly Jewish audience. Reading Jesus into their stories, we say they point to him. For example, Matthew's initial audience would hear Tamar's name, know of her righteousness, and understand it as a foreshadowing of Jesus and his life, his teachings. Jesus, talking about righteousness in the sermon on mount, redefines it. If we know the story of Tamar and her risky righteousness, we can hear Jesus' redefinition as building off her.

All of these connect with Advent, a season created well after the gospels were written and Christianity religiously institutionalized, when we remember/ consider the socio-political-cultural climate into which Jesus was born. The Holy Land was occupied by the Roman Empire. Oppression and injustice were everywhere, and hope was... sometimes in short supply. The birth of the Messiah was hope and revolution in the flesh, coming to flip the tables and radically redefine what it means to be things like righteous and faithful.

Hopefully that makes sense to you. If not, tell me what doesn't, and ask me to clarify. My prayer for you this Advent season is that the stories of Tamar, Rahab, Ruth, and Bathsheba take root in your spirit, and inspire you to live more boldly in faith.

Peace of the Holy Mothers,
Pr. Kate Drefke

*We got a bigger apartment with real natural sunlight coming in through actual windows- can you guess a major complaint about our last apartment?- in Albany and spent the latter half of November moving.

Christmas Day Worship

A joint worship with the ELCA congregations of Albany, Faith in Troy, and ELCP. Christmas morning worship is at 10 am. All are welcome to be physically present at First Lutheran, Albany (181 Western Ave) or to join remotely via Zoom (<http://firstlutheranalbany.org/zoom> or call: 1-929-436-2866, Meeting ID: 518-463-1326, Passcode: 1.). Those who plan to attend remotely are encouraged to have bread and a festive beverage ready for communion and perhaps some candles to light.

New Year's Day Worship

Faith and Poestenkill will do one shared service at Faith, 10:45am. It will, as usual, be in person and on Zoom (usual link). The service will be a lessons & carols format with the carols being by request (like our hymn sing worship in July).

Midweek Advent Bible Study

Expanding on our Sunday sermon series (sermons can be heard at <https://anchor.fm/kate-drefke>), we'll dive deeper into the stories of the Advent Mothers on Wednesdays. Join us in person at Faith from 2-3pm, or on Zoom from 7-8pm (<https://us02web.zoom.us/j/83192075891?pwd=Q0UyT2Z3Ti9Fbk1JY2NFOHdaaFUzZz09/MeetingID:83192075891Passcode:239056>).

Reading

Since I now have a longer commute, I'm starting to catch up on my audio books. Yay! So this month, my "reads" are "listens."

The Martian (2011) by Andy Weir.

This speculative fiction/ sci-fi novel finds Mark Watney abandoned alone on Mars after the rest of his crew makes an emergency evacuation during a storm. It's a lot of science to explain how the botanist survives, but the story isn't all... him. While most of the novel is narrated from Watney's point-of-view, Weir also gives his readers third-person perspectives on people at NASA and members of the crew.

(The 2015 film adaptation starring Matt Damon was the first movie Lowell and I saw together.)

Parable of the Sower (1993) by Octavia E. Butler.

From the publisher:

Parable of the Sower is the Butlerian odyssey of one woman who is twice as feeling in a world that has become doubly dehumanized. The time is 2025. The place is California, where small walled communities must protect themselves from hordes of desperate scavengers and roaming bands of people addicted to a drug that activates an orgasmic desire to burn, rape, and murder. When one small community is overrun, Lauren Olamina, an 18 year old black woman with the hereditary trait of "hyperempathy"—which causes her to feel others' pain as her own—sets off on foot along the dangerous coastal highways, moving north into the unknown.

Carols of Christmas – December 10, 2022

The joint community choir again resumes this year at Cornerstone Community Church, corner of 3rd Avenue and 115th Street in Lansingburgh. The program will be held at 3:00 PM on Saturday afternoon. A free will offering will be taken with the collection used to support people suffering in war torn Ukraine and to the Regional Food Bank of Eastern NY. A reception with light fare follows the program in the church hall.

Stewardship Committee Report - Fall 2022

Thank you all for your continuing financial support of Faith Lutheran Church during these difficult times. That said, most of us are keenly aware of the effects of recent inflation on our households. While we are reminded of this every time we purchase groceries or fill up our gas tanks, it may be less obvious that inflation is negatively affecting our church's financial health. Heating, electricity, and general operating costs are increasing. At the same time, weekly offerings are less than is needed to meet our budget.

Offerings declined significantly over the summer and have not increased as they usually do in the fall. Clearly this is not where we want to be.

With this in mind, it is most important that we continue to give generously and regularly as we are able. Please prayerfully consider how together we may accomplish this.

The Albany Maritime Ministry welcomes seafarers, offers a clothing bank, helps them contact loved ones, conducts Christmas at sea program, provides bible and devotional materials, pastoral counseling and van transportation. ## What’s with the Heating System Problems?

Supply chain issues hit home. The burner blower on our boiler (Peerless – an American Firm with an international presence), which was in stalled in 2014, failed in early November. Our installing contractor diagnosed the problem as a failed motor/electronic controller on the blower (manufactured in Germany) that is required for the boiler to fire. Estimated times for a new burner blower ranged from 2 weeks (distributor) to 10 weeks (manufacturer). To keep the waterlines in the building from freezing, the circulator pumps for the heating system were wired to run continuously and water faucets set to drip throughout the building.

The contractor found a part on line that matched the boiler specs which was received in 7 days from the time of order. It arrived, but having been misrepresented, did not fit our boiler. Bypassing the normal distributor the contractor found a blower in western NY that did meet our specs. It was shipped by overnight freight and our expectation was that it would be installed the week of November 27th. When it arrived it was damaged with a broken bolt that cannot be replaced. In parallel, the original blower was taken to a local firm that deals with sophisticated electrical/mechanical equipment repair; it was determined that the blower was high tech with too much electronic gear integrated with the motor and could not be repaired. Meanwhile, another original equipment burner was located in NJ which will be arriving in Albany December 3rd. Our expectation is that it will be undamaged and installed on December 5th or 6th.

A ray of sunshine? We were able to use temporary measures to warm the building enough to be comfortable for the Truland Funeral on December 2 and will be using these same measures to allow in person service on this Sunday, December 4.

Quilt Ministry – December

The quilt featured in December has been constructed by Ruth Goerold. The many gem tones make it a colorful quilt. It is sure to keep someone at St. Paul's Center warm in the winter months.
